

what's new?

Atkinson Graphics is online.

I launched my website in May 2009 and web statistics are climbing fast. It was designed and constructed in-house. Check it out at www.atkinsongraphics.ca

After intensive web design training throughout 2008-2009, I am now building a portfolio of custom websites. In order to do this, I am offering you a chance to have a clean, unique website for a reduced price.

These websites are NOT 'cookie-cutter' designs from pre-fabricated templates. I approach each website artistically, creating original designs that deliver your message with impact.

If you do not have a website or if your current website isn't working for you, please contact me to receive a professionally designed site for a price that you can afford.

print design. web design. in-house.

Offering both print and web design is not only convenient, it is an asset to your services and products.

How? It allows me to integrate your web presence with your print materials further enhancing and reinforcing corporate branding. In other words, if design elements from your website are repeated in print ads, business cards and brochures, customers will easily identify your business and the products and services you sell.

upgrades

Both hardware and software have been upgraded in 2009.

I purchased an iMac computer with a 24" screen, a new Epson 4490 scanner and the latest Adobe CS software package. This means that I can bring cutting edge quality and special effects to your promotional projects.
